

SCHMIDT KILLED TWO, IS BELIEF

Police Think Helen Green Was Also Victim of New York
Murderer.

Neither he had murdered another girl; neither Muret was related to him, and various other questions relating to the case.

Schmidt wrote in German on the back of this note the following, as near as it could be translated:

"Who never at his bread in tears, who never through the dreary night upon his pillow weeping sat. Knows not the Almighty power."

The body of Anna Amuller today from Hoboken, and Schmidt probably will be taken to identify it. The detectives have been assured by Schmidt that he could identify the body beyond any doubt. Schmidt appeared much depressed today after reading the papers which told of the discovery of the blank death certificates. He refused to talk and was silent.

Has Death Certificates. Had Schmidt escaped detection, his list of victims might have rivaled that of H. H. Holmes, the notorious Philadelphia murderer, who was hanged in 1896. This was the belief expressed by the detectives today, following another search of Schmidt's trunk, which revealed that he had a supply of blank death and burial certificates.

It is believed that Schmidt planned to use these certificates in doing away with his victims, and in this manner would have returned a report to the health authorities indicating that the person died a natural death. This in a measure was the method used by the notorious Holmes, who killed at least eleven persons before he was captured. The police found photographs of both of the death certificates issued for Robert Smith, sixty-nine, who died last April. Schmidt visited Smith twice, administered extreme unction, and officiated at the funeral. The body was not known how Schmidt obtained possession of the certificate to have it photographed.

Utter Degenerate. The utter depth of the degeneracy of the priest was indicated yesterday when it became known he had confessed that he was suffering from an incurable disease, and that in some respects his crimes against Anna Amuller paralleled those in the case of Jennie Bonas, a better, the police said, who was killed in 1910.

Among the letters which Inspector Furest found in the rectory room of Schmidt at St. Joseph's, 406 West 15th street, are said to be several from women, some married, some single, who were supposed to write to a spiritual adviser, but in a way to indicate that the spiritual relationship was an incestuous quantity. Detectives are at work on these letters with a view to obtaining more light on the worldly activities of Schmidt.

The theory advanced to the effect that Schmidt was not Schmidt, but that the original Johannes Schmidt, ordained a priest in Germany, had been murdered and his credentials stolen by his murderer, was not credited yesterday by Attorney Alphonso G. Koebke, who is acting for Schmidt.

Doubts Theory. "I don't take a bit of stock in this theory," he said. "A Johannes Schmidt was ordained a priest, according to the records, and I have no doubt that the man who has confessed to the murder of Anna Amuller is the original."

That two more arrests are impending in the case was admitted yesterday by the police. One of these is a woman, who already has been questioned by the detectives, but who is believed to know more of the operations of Schmidt and "Dr. Muret" than she has told.

The other person under suspicion is a man. Inspector Furest has been in telephonic communication with Chief of Police Frank Titus, of Englewood, N. J. It is known that the police of Englewood and New York have been working together to effect an arrest.

While admitting that he had been trying to "make money," Schmidt insisted that he had never passed any of the counterfeit bills for two reasons: First, because he had not brought the counterfeit to the degree of perfection where he thought it would be passable, and second, because he never had intended to "show" any of the spurious bills until he had accumulated a large enough quantity of them to enable him to carry out his plan of ameliorating the condition of the poor in this country and Germany.

He declared there was no insanity in his family, and that it was "not nice" on the part of the newspapers to print

Corns Sure as Fate

If You've Had Corns for Months or Years, "GETS-IT" Will Remove Them All in a Few Days.

"When I hurt way up to my heart, I've tried almost everything for corns. Corn-sufferers, corned joy is at hand. 'GETS-IT' is the only real remedy any corn ever had. Put 'GETS-IT' on in 2 seconds, and away they go, shrivel, vanish. No more cottons, no more bandages to stop circulation and stick to the stocking, no more knives to cut the flesh raw and make the corn 'pull,' no more knives or razors with danger of bleeding and blood poisoning."

What Is There About Office of President That Makes Man Fat?

What is there about the great and exalted office of President of the United States of America that makes a man fat? What is there about the memory of having once served in said office that makes a man lean?

Not that President Wilson is exactly fat, nor yet that former President Taft is exactly lean, but—

Why is it that Woodrow Wilson, who assumed office last March a thin man, is getting a double chin, and a—er—waist line?

Why is it that William Howard Taft, who relinquished the office last March a very, very, stout man, is losing flesh at the rate of eighty pounds in six months time?

There is no particular cause for alarm at present, for President Wilson is far from the stage of obesity, and Mr. Taft still tips the scales at a point considerably above the 200 mark; but—such stories. He said he was perfectly willing to stand an examination as to his sanity, and that no one could find any trace of insanity in him. Since being locked up Schmidt has developed a severe case of biliousness and has had medical attention from Dr. Lichtenstein, one of the Tombs physicians. He felt better yesterday afternoon, and according to his attorney, seemed more cheerful and attentive to events going on around him than he has since he was arrested. For the first time he consented to read the newspapers. He refused to answer written queries sent to him by reporters, as he had done freely the day before.

Why is it?

To Protest Identity. Attorney Koebke has made it clear that he intends to protest the identification of the parts of the body in the Hoboken morgue as being those of Anna Amuller.

"Personally do not believe there has been any legal identification," he said, "and for that reason it becomes my duty to my client to compel the State to establish the corpus delicti."

"It seems strange that the Hirt girl, who is the principal witness in establishing the identity of the parts of the body, should have known nothing about the birth mark or tattoo mark on the left shoulder. She said she had slept with Anna Amuller and certainly would have seen such a mark."

"It is true that she told the detectives before she went to Hoboken that the Amuller girl had a small mole on the breast; but there are few women who have not some such small mark. This is the only substantial item of identification the police have on which to establish the corpus delicti."

"Miss Hirt said that a bed had fallen on her friend and struck her on the shoulder; but a mark such as would have been made by such an accident is far different from that on the shoulder of the girl, parts of whose body have been found."

"While I have no desire to delay for a moment the legal processes in the case, I will be compelled, as a lawyer, to contest this point, no matter what my personal belief may be as to whether or not parts of the body of Anna Amuller have been found."

The other person under suspicion is a man. Inspector Furest has been in telephonic communication with Chief of Police Frank Titus, of Englewood, N. J. It is known that the police of Englewood and New York have been working together to effect an arrest.

GENEVIEVE CLARK ENJOYED HER TRIP

Tour Abroad Is Great Boon in Educational Way, Says
Speaker's Daughter.

A tour abroad is the last word in education for the American school girl. This is the opinion of Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of Speaker Clark, who has just returned to Washington after five months spent traveling in Europe. Miss Clark, at the Congress Hall Hotel today, expressed pleasure at being again in the United States, despite the slight of interest in Europe. She asserted that a trip abroad inspires an undying interest in art, as one can see the real work of the great masters, after reading of them, and in a literary way it adds much to one's general culture.

During her stay abroad, Miss Clark attended sessions of the French and Italian senates, devoting considerable time to study of the customs of these governmental bodies and she probably will write something in the future on her observations.

Accompanying Miss Clark on her tour were Miss Dorothy Harvey, daughter of Col. George Harvey, and Mrs. Harvey. Colonel Harvey met the party at San Maritz on the return trip. They left New York April 17 and returned on September 17. The first week of the tour was spent in Paris. Rome was then visited, and here Miss Clark was fascinated, declaring that Rome was not only the dream city but the most wonderful of all. The wonderful art galleries at Florence were visited, and beautiful Venice offered many nights of interest. The party then went up through the Austrian Tyrol in a coach. At Dresden the reverence shown by all types of people visiting the Sistine Madonna made a lasting impression on the tourists.

Each day also was visited, and the month of August was spent in San Maritz. Moving into Paris, the party took passage for home early this month.

LITTLE LABOR BILL, PRAY, WHO ARE YOU?

Congressman Edward E. Browne,
Wisconsin Republican, was introduced to the members of the House Labor
Committee in an unusual manner today.

The committee was considering a bill by Mr. Mann to create a bureau of safety in the Department of Labor. When Mr. Mann concluded his brief remarks, the keen eye of Chairman Lewis sighted a quiet looking little man down near the other end of the table.

"Do you wish to address the committee, sir?" asked Mr. Lewis, addressing the unknown.

"I am a member of this committee," he responded. "I am Browne of Wisconsin."

"Glad to meet you, Mr. Browne, and I hope we'll see a lot of you hereafter," amiably observed Congressman Finley Gray. Mr. Browne blushed his thanks.

Later the Wisconsin member explained that he had been in his district mulling about since the passage of the tariff bill, and had not attended the one or two prior meetings held by the Labor committee.

After the committee meeting today Chairman Lewis and other members shook hands with the newcomer, and he is going to be at the next meeting.

PARTY OF REFUGEES REACHES SAN DIEGO

Hundred and Thirty-eight From Mexico on Board Ship.
Bryan Is Silent.

A shipload of 138 American refugees from Mexico had reached San Diego, Cal., on board the Buffalo, according to official devices received today by the State Department from the agent of the Red Cross at San Diego. Secretary Bryan declined to comment on reports to the effect that many of these refugees were displaced at having been warned by Washington to leave Mexico, and are desirous of returning. It is officially stated, however, that more than fifty of these refugees have already left San Diego for their homes in the East.

Reports from Mexico to the effect that Border Mangel, a member of the Mexican Congress, had been murdered were denied by the department here today on the basis of a telegram from the American embassy, stating that Senator Mangel appeared in Congress when it reconvened last Wednesday.

The consul at Aguascalientes has reported that M. A. Griffin, who left Fresno, and about whose safety inquiries have been made, is now safe at San Antonio, Tex.
